

ABSTRACT

A method of gaming in a mobile casino supervised from a supervisory location includes collecting data from the mobile casino and sending the data to the supervisory location. The data collected may include payoff information, gaming revenue information, video surveillance information, or geographic position information. The method may also include changing an operating mode of gaming equipment in the mobile casino based on the geographic position information.